STRIKE FOR THEIR PAY.

Six Hundred Kentucky Miners Have Not Seen Money For Months

Central City, Ky., Oct. 16.—A strike is now on against the coal miners of the Western Kentucky district. It is confined to the smaller mines, but the movement is spreading. There are now about 600 men out at different places, as follows: Island, 60; Drakeburg, 100; Bevier, 130; Williams, 75; Cardinale, 75; Hillsdale, 75; Powderly, 75. It is confined to pick miners and has not been taken up by machine miners. The men demand three cents a bushel for mining coal instead of the present rate of two and one-half cents, and $1.25 instead of $1 for entry work. The men average about fifty bushels each a day.

The principal grievance, however, is the fact that the companies do not pay off their men regularly, some of them being three and four months behind. They use the "company store" plan of paying men, which is very unsatisfactory to the miners. The men are now demanding a regular pay day and cash payments every month.

The miners of the Central Coal and Iron Company at this place and Henderson are paid off regularly, as desired, but delegations are here trying to get the men to go out on a sympathy strike, and a convention will be held here Tuesday by delegations from the different mines. The men are several weeks here now, some of them showing statements of credits from their employers for August and September, but who had to walk here, not being able to get anything from their companies but merchandise.

Senator Bronston at Cadiz.

At the request of the Campaign Committee that Senator Bronston be sent to Trigg county, his appointment for this city was transferred to Cadiz; and the popular Bluegrass orator addressed a large crowd there yesterday. He spent Sunday in this city, accompanied by Mrs. Bronston. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Galtier. Senator Bronston returned from Cadiz last night and will leave for Princeton on the early train this morning, and will to-day hold a joint discussion with ex-Congressman Josiah Patterson, of Tennessee, who is speaking in the interest of blind men.

Col Tom Hanks Passes Away.

Lawrenceburg, Ky., Oct. 15.—The Hon. Thomas H. Hanks, aged seventy-four, died at noon of liver trouble after a long illness. He was known as the patriarch of the Kentucky legislature. He had served on our three constitutions, served six terms in the general assembly, the first in '99, and was a member of the last constitutional convention. He was married in 1855 to Miss Margaret Meyers, who preceded him to the grave last December. He was always a Democrat, and first voted for James K. Folk in 1844.

Yesterday's Fever Report.

Yellow fever has made its appearance at Bay St. Louis, Miss. Seven cases and one suspect have been of locally reported. Except at New Orleans the fever seems to be dying out for lack of material. At New Orleans Sunday there were five deaths and twenty-four new cases. Owing to a shortage of funds the Board of Health at New Orleans has been compelled to relax its vigilance, and the force of guards is being reduced. Frost, however, will soon put an end to the ravages of the disease. There have been nearly 20,000 cases to date.

Preacher's Bad Predecessor.

Henry Williams, a colored preacher, was arrested here Friday night. Williams is charged with having committed an assault upon the person of Bettie Tandy, col., near Fairview, Friday afternoon. He was taken to jail and his examining trial is set for today. There is considerable excitement in the Fairview neighborhood among the negroes over the matter and there is strong talk of rioting.

Death of a Great Editor.

New York, Oct. 17.—Mr. Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, died at three o'clock this afternoon at Dorset, his country place on West Island, near Great Cove, L. I. Mr. Dana was born in Hinsdale, Cheshire county, N. H., August 8, 1819. By descent on both sides of the house Mr. Dana carried the blood of the stout-hearted, rugged-minded New England stock that bred men like himself and his journalistic foster father and sponsor, Horace Greeley, also a native of New Hampshire.

Four children, one son and three daughters, survive Mr. Dana. They are: Paul Dana, ex-park commissioner, and now actively connected with the Sun; Mrs. William H. Draper, Mrs. J. W. Brennan and Mrs. William Underhill, a widow.

Edward Laugtry, husband of Jerry Lilly, died in an insane asylum in England.

'CREAM OF NEWS.

IF IT IS NEW AND TRUE THIS COLUMN HAS IT.

Big Verdict—Accident—Escape—Bronston—Feland—Morrow—Jones—A Preacher's Scrape—Fever News—Sudden Death.

In Their New Uniforms.

The young ladies of Bellefonte College have donned their handsome and becoming new uniforms for the winter season. The suits are of dark blue with hats to match.

Judge Morrow Getting Better.

Judge T. J. Morrow's friends will be glad to know that he is getting very much better and is now very hopeful of an early restoration to health. His stomach is now in such a condition that he can retain what he eats and his appetite is good. He is able to sit up a good deal.

Sam Jones in Henderson.

Rev. Sam Jones began a ten days' meeting in Henderson Sunday. He arrived the night before with his daughter. The Gleaner says Miss Jones will play one of the pianos, with Ben Pales as crucifix, with a local choir of 112 voices. Much interest is being taken in the meeting.

Young John Feland Speaks.

Capt. John Feland made a speech at the Court House Saturday afternoon in the interest of the Republican ticket. This was his first appearance on the stump in the present campaign. As he is one of the ablest young men in his party, it goes without saying that he made a good speech from a Republican standpoint.

Hand Horribly Crushed.

A young man named Kimerling, of Church Hill, a member of the firm of Kimerling & Coles, who operates a well boring machine, got one of his hands caught in the machinery Saturday, while boring a well for Mrs. Stites, of this city, and the member was so badly crushed that amputation may be necessary.

Just as They are.

The farmers, especially the wheat growers of the county, have been very busy sowing wheat since the rain, and it is calculated that more than an average acreage will be seeded in Christian county. A few farmers had put their crops in the ground just before the rain and the dampness has brought out a beautiful growth.

Hopkinsville Wants It.

The recent meeting of the State Lodge of Odd Fellows at Owensboro was a very important one. Among other things, it was decided to establish a home for the widows and orphans of deceased brethren. Hopkinsville will put up a strong fight to secure the location of the home in or near this city.

Brooke's Blood Vessel.

Mr. Isaiah S. Dunning, a well known Crofton farmer, had been suffering with a severe cold for several days. Last Saturday night he had a fit of coughing and ran to the wash tub for relief. Physicians have failed to stop the flow of blood and at last accounts he was in a precarious condition and it is feared that the injury will result in his death.

A Brilliant Social Event.

The Brannon-Bramham nuptials will be the social event of this week. The first of a series of wedding receptions was given at Mrs. Ritchie Burnett's last night to the wedding party and a few other guests. To-night another similar event will be held at the residence of Prof. J. G. Bramham, the bride's father. The wedding will occur to-morrow afternoon at Mr. and Mrs. Brannon will take the 8:15 Southbound train for Nashville on a short bridal tour.

Believed to be Yellow Fever.

Dr. J. N. McCormack, secretary of the State Board of Health, was called to Guthrie Friday afternoon by the physicians of that place to investigate a supposed case of yellow fever. The patient was a white man and gave his name as Arthur Boschen. He was found Friday morning lying under the L. & N. water tank, and was rescued and taken to his boarding house. The man claimed Pennsylvania as his home, but said he had been at work in a stove factory at St. Louis for some time. When he was taken sick he boarded a train and beat his way as far as Guthrie, where he was discovered by some of the train crew and put off. The physician of Guthrie found the stranger to have all the symptoms of yellow fever. Dr. McCormack left with the patient Friday night for Louisville, where he was placed in a hospital. It is believed by many that Boschen is a tramp, directly from the yellow fever district. There is considerable excitement over the case.

Oklahoma, now seven years old, has a population of 300,000.

MILLION FOR TWO EYES.

From Far Away India Comes a King of Healers to Work on a Cross.

New York, Oct. 16.—A mysterious stranger, Dr. Guelph Norman, a physician from far away India, has traveled more than half way around the earth to try to restore sight to the blind eyes of the multimillionaire, Chas. B. Rouse. The actual treatment consumed but fifteen minutes.

Mr. Rouse reclined in a big easy chair in his private office, and the long, weird looking doctor from India commenced operations by feeling his pulse. Then he looked upward and muttered what sounded like a prayer.

The doctor gazed earnestly into his patient's eyes and proceeded to rub a colorless liquid over the lids and temples with mysterious motions. He stroked the back of the head. Each motion was timed, and the patient was motionless.

When the doctor's treatment was over Mr. Rouse could see the doctor's hand held ten inches from his eyes. In fourteen minutes the multimillionaire could only tell that there was some sort of an object before him.

Dr. Norman says he will restore sight to the eyes of the patient within four weeks, and, though he has been at work for several days, the patient is not generally known.

The fact that the doctor offers $100,000 or more to be able to see as other folks do reached Dr. Norman in his home in India. He is an Englishman, but has lived in India for many years. He is not an M. D. according to medical ideas, but he claims to be skilled in arts of optical cures, which are almost as old as the barbers. And the one now employed on Mr. Rouse is said to date back as far as the Vedas, the book of sacred and historic writings, embracing the ancient philosophy of the Aryans.

DUNN STRIKES 'EM HARD.

Verdict of $7,500 Against the L. & N. Company.

The damage suit of Parker McCombs, col., against the L. & N. Railroad Company for $25,000 damages was decided late Saturday evening and a verdict returned for the plaintiff in the sum of $7,500. The trial lasted several days and was one of the most important cases tried so far. McCombs is a deaf mute and prior to his having his legs cut off below the knees was an athletic man who could run a hundred yards in ten seconds. He is now confined to a chair. His attorneys were Feland & Feland, Wood & Wood and J. T. Hanbery. An appeal will be taken.

Dr. Lewis Still in Force.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 16.—In the Court of Appeals this morning Chief Justice Lewis handed down an opinion which knocks out the sensational construction that was put on an old opinion, and by which it was thought most of the local-option towns of the State became "wet" September 28 last. He virtually holds that those are as "dry" as they ever were. The opinion is in the case of Stamper vs. Commonwealth from Carter county. It explains the opinion of Judge Hazlett's, in which he says he didn't mean that all these old local acts would stand repealed September 28, but that that day the penalties provided in all these local acts must become inoperative. This uniform penalty is now in effect, he says, and consists of a fine of from $100 to $200 for each violation of any of these local acts which do not otherwise conflict with the Constitution and which are still in force.

Escaped From the Chain Gang.

Titus Bibb, col., serving a sentence on the Guthrie chain gang for gaming, made his escape in a peculiar manner last Friday. He was shackled with a ball and chain and was at work near the railroad. As a freight train passed by Bibb suddenly dropped his shovel and throwing the ball and chain over his arm, ran under the box car and swung himself upon the brake rods. He landed safely and waving his hand at the other members of the gang, was soon out of sight. It is understood that a reward has been offered for his capture by the Guthrie authorities.

Eyes Paralyzed by Kiss.

A Berlin cable dispatch to the New York Sun says: "The Munchener Nachrichten records the experience of a young German who undertook to establishing a kissing record. He gained his sweetheart's consent, the terms being that she should take 10,000 kisses from her lips in ten hours, with a brief interval for refreshments every half hour. Unhappy for her appearance and the attention she made the record began. 'The young man scored 2,000 kisses in the first hour and 1,000 in the second. He had reached 3,000 at the third hour when his lips became paralyzed and he became unconscious.'

Douglas Balle, a negro leader, was lynched at a small settlement on Bayou Barataria, about fifteen miles from New Orleans. His offense was running the quarantine guard.

VOTE AGAINST IT.

It is not generally known that a constitutional amendment is not to be voted upon two weeks hence. It reads:

"The general assembly may by general laws provide for taxation by municipalities of property other than lands and improvements thereon, based on income, licenses or from classes which may be either in addition to or in lieu of ad valorem taxes thereon."

The danger is in providing for other forms of taxation "in lieu of ad valorem taxes." Should this amendment be adopted it will destroy the uniformity and equality of taxation now existing. It is only intended to force class legislation in the interest of wealthy corporations.

The Republicans in their last State convention declared in favor of this amendment, but as they have advocated almost every other form of class legislation, they are consistent in favoring this amendment.

There is no good reason why one class of taxable property should pay a lower rate of taxes than any other class in the same city. Since the adoption of the present constitution, which has a few good provisions in it, certain interests favored under the old one, have been trying to avoid its provisions, first by legislative enactment of City Charters in violation of constitutional provisions, and later by judicial decisions, but having failed in these attempts it is now proposed to seek through constitutional amendment to obtain these special privileges.

The real purpose of the proposed amendment, as we see it, is to enable certain wealthy corporations to secure a lower rate of taxation than is paid by their less fortunate and less industrial neighbors. We still hold to the old and fundamental Democratic doctrine of equal and exact justice, to all and exclusive privileges to none, and are, therefore, unalterably opposed to the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment, and call upon all voters who believe in equality of tax burdens to vote against this vicious proposition. The constitution as it is in bad enough and the more it is tampered with the worse it will be for the people.

The county canvass is moving along without much apparent interest. Several days ago the Democratic and Republican candidates entered into an agreement to make no more speeches of any kind, and a bush-whacking, still-hunt policy was adopted by both sides. Saturday some of the Democratic candidates came in from the brush and said that they had obtained the information that some of the Republicans had not been living up to the agreement not to make speeches. This charge afforded the only enlightening feature of the week's campaign. Only two more weeks remain and the quietest canvass ever known in the county is drawing to a close.

Supplemental registration days at the Clerk's Office are Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. These are the only two days upon which the sick or absent voters can qualify themselves to take part in the election two weeks from to day.

Chairman Johnston has announced five speeches for Chas. A. Tamm and eight for J. W. Bailey in Central Kentucky. They are big guns, second only to Bryan as silver orators.

Stricken at the Dinner Table.

Lafayette, Ky., Oct. 16.—Miss Ellen Carothers, a very estimable lady of this place, died quite suddenly at 1 o'clock p. m. Wednesday. She was in her usual health in the morning and was taken ill at the dinner table. Her physician pronounced paralysis the cause of death. She was 57 years old.

It is stated in London that unless the sailing question is speedily settled the United States Government will order the destruction next season of all of the seals.

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 16.—The names of Judge George B. Nelson, National Democrat and Maj. J. N. Carlwell, Republican, of Winchester, Ind., nominated for circuit judge and Commonwealth's attorney, respectively, by the Republicans, will not go on the November ballots. District Chairman Wallace says that his party has notified him of his acceptance of the nomination and, as this is the last day when district nominations can be considered, there will be no opposition to Judge T. J. Scott, of this city, and Hon. Ben A. Crutcher, of Nicholasville, Democratic nominees.

A roaring Irish farce, "McFee's Matrimonial Bureau," which is announced as the attraction at the opera house, Thursday, Oct. 21, is a complete artistic and financial success, bright and up to date, is pronounced by the press the most delightful hit of the age. The author, Mr. Fate Goodbar, now with the attraction, having rewritten the piece, introducing new and original witticisms and novel situations, which places it in a higher rank as a comedy success than ever before. It is brim full of Irish wit and humor, brilliant music, bubbling song, and is presented by an able company of twenty of the most famous fun makers of this country. Neither time, money or money has been spared in selecting the most extraordinary cast in staging and costuming the piece in such a manner that it stands at the head of all musical comedies and even rivals comic opera. From the large cast a selection of the names of Gibson and Allen, Chelso D. Peruch, Harry Clinton Smyth, James W. Murray, Robert T. Edwards, Miss Lillian Murray Knott, Edith Talbot, Wynne Cashman, The Two Magnates, John Glover, Elsie Russell, Grace Sullivan, Violet Dale and the others, is a sufficient guarantee of an artistic performance. This is the second year of the company's very successful career and it is expected to almost an entirely new production.

Senator Henry L. Martin refused to allow his name to go under the log cabin in the Vernailles district.

The R. N. I. and B. railroad was sold at auction at Versailles for $301,000 to the loan holders.

My Baby.

"My baby is so fat and healthy since I am well again. As long as I was under the weather, my baby was so weak and thin that it was enough to make me cry to look at it. Your free treatment restored me and immediately my baby began to recover. I had to keep him partly on cow's milk and prepared food, which did not seem to agree with him. Now I have plenty of milk for him, and he is so strong and good for me. There are so few women that are perfectly well. I would not think of trying to get along without a bottle of Peruna in the house. I do not take it all the time, but there are short spells when I need something to give me strength and help my nerves. Peruna never fails to give me a good appetite, a strong nervous, sound and refreshing sleep. I only wish I could tell every mother in the world about it."

This is a specimen of the kind of letters that Dr. Hartman is receiving every day. Among the letters just received, with requests for Peruna, may be mentioned: Mrs. H. D. Amos, Greensboro, Ga.; Mrs. C. Gibson, Beardsley, Knox Co., Tenn.; Mrs. Mary Bartholomew, St. Francisville, Ill.; Mrs. Emma Eden, Kookuk, Iowa; Mrs. Emma Ochs, Clay Center, Neb.; Mrs. A. J. Hull, Leona, Kan. This list might be multiplied indefinitely.

Dr. Hartman is the author of a book written expressly for women, beautifully illustrated. It will be sent free for a short time by the Peruna Drug Manufacturing Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Sinking Fork, Ky.

Oct. 16.—Since the refreshing rain the farmers have been very busy sowing wheat.

A meeting is now being conducted at Sinking Fork Baptist church by W. A. Hanson.

We are glad to say that Travis Dinguid, who was so seriously injured by a horse, is improving.

Miss Pearl Smith spent Friday night with Miss Eva Stephens.

Mr. Geo. White's horse became frightened near "Mountain View" the other night and ran away throwing him out of his buggy. But, we are glad to say, he was not fatally wounded but only disappointed, for we think he intended carrying his best girl to church.

Miss Lula Stevens has returned from a visit to your city.

Mr. Theo. Hiver at home spending a month's vacation.

The Teachers' Association will be held at the Sinking Fork Christian church, Saturday, Oct. 23. Miss Leslie will make the welcoming address.

Nessa, Geo. White, Lewis Wood and Lila Buie, will leave for Jones county, Texas. We regret their departure very much, but we wish them much success in their "Snappy Heaven."

A Good Appetite.

"A good appetite is nature for poor food," according to the old adage, but a voracious appetite might be both inconvenient and expensive. If a man were built on the same lines as a caterpillar, the whole round world would shortly become a desert waste. This must occur in the course of four or five weeks; eat more than 6,000 times its weight in food. An adult human being must have most excellent appetite to consume within three weeks' time an amount of food that would kill an ox in eight days. A few persons eat more than this, but by far the greater number take less. An estimate of the food consumption of the world would show a general average far below these figures. The majority of persons get food enough to satisfy their cravings, but there is a very considerable minority that scarcely knows what it is to be free from the pangs of hunger.

Origin of Music.

According to mythology, music had its origin with the god Hermes. He took a tortoise, and after disemboweling it made a lyre out of its back. He made seven strings from sheep's gut and played upon them with a piece of bone.

The Franklin Case.

Benton, Ky., Oct. 16.—The jury to day found Noah Franklin guilty of the murder of Daisy Sullivan, and fixed his punishment at the life imprisonment.

The crime for which Franklin has been convicted was a most atrocious one. Daisy Sullivan was a comely country girl, about seventeen years of age, and lived with her parents and two younger brothers near Bridgeburg in this (Marshall) county. She had been seduced in about two weeks from the time of her death would have become a mother. The murder thus proved a double one.

On the night of October 30, last, about 9 o'clock, Daisy Sullivan was murdered. The house in which the Franklin lived was a double log structure with an open hallway between. Daisy left the room where her father and mother were sitting, her brothers having gone out, but her father, who was sitting, and started across the hall. She ran up and Daisy screamed. Mrs. Sullivan begged her husband not to go out, leaving her, too, would be shot. In terror the husband and wife crouched upon the floor to avoid being seen from the window, awaiting the return of their son. He over a hour before they came and found their sister lying dead in a pool of her own blood. Death had been instantaneous. She fell full upon a resal which she held in her hand, and it was broken to pieces. Who shot had evidently been fired from behind a clump of vines just outside the house, and had hit the girl at close range. The charge entered just above her heart, leaving a gaping wound.

Suspicion first attached to her father, about whom ugly rumors had been circulated in connection with his daughter's ruin. Sullivan talked very freely about the matter, denouncing both crimes attributed to him. Then it was remembered that Noah Franklin, a young man of the neighborhood, had had been paying special attention to the girl, had been quite active in an effort to have old man Sullivan indicted by the grand jury for incest. This effort failed, and then, it is claimed, Franklin made threats of killing both Sullivan and the girl. Daisy had confided to her mother, who had been bitterly pished her fear. It was found that Franklin had bought five cents' worth of shot on the day of the killing, as stated.

A warrant was sworn out for Franklin's arrest. On preliminary trial before the county judge testimony about the threats was not brought out, and Franklin was discharged. Subsequently the grand jury indicted him for murder. The case was continued over one term, and this continuance was made an issue in the race for the nomination for circuit judge, resulting in Judge Bishop's defeat.

In the trial over 200 witnesses were examined, and the case was bitterly fought from the start to the finish.

Maharajah's Minstrels.

Every advance report that comes in, speaks only in highest terms of Maharajah's Minstrels, who are to appear at the Opera House, Friday, Oct. 22. The Maharajah Brothers have been before the public as managers for many years, and they promise this season to eclipse any of their efforts in the past, and if their program is any criterion to go by, they have kept their word, as some of the best colored artists on the minstrel stage are now traveling with them. They every endeavor has been to combine all the stronger portions of the old style of minstrelsy, with the latest novelties. The musical parts of the entertainment are handled by artists, whose voices are more fitted for the concert platform, while their comedies will show that there is no lack of fun. Among the names on the program will be found that of Billy Young, and Charles Cass, Comedians; Letty Blood, an impersonator of a tough character, who outwits a woman, and Master Hillard Brewer, a contortionist of unusual type. With two big bands they will give a treat to the way of an entertainment in itself. They will parade at 11:30 a. m.

NOT FOR EVERYTHING

But if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble you will find Swamp Root just the remedy you need. People are not apt to get anxious about their health soon enough. If you are "not quite well" or "half sick" have you ever thought that your kidneys may be the cause of your sickness?

It is easy to tell by setting aside your urine for twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stands long is evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate, scanty supply, pain or dull ache in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder need doctoring.

There is satisfaction in knowing that the great remedy Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, fulfills every wish in relieving weak or diseased kidneys and all forms of bladder and urinary troubles. Not only does Swamp Root give new life and activity to the kidneys—the cause of trouble, but by treating the kidneys it acts as a tonic for the entire constitution. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar, or by mentioning the Hopkinsville Kentuckian and sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may have a sample bottle of this great discovery sent to you free by mail.

A FINLAND LOVE STORY.

Ardent Lover Carries On His Suit by Telephone.

Mrs. Alec Tweedle has recently brought out a book entitled "Through Finland in Cars," full of rare bits of travel. She speaks of Finland as being like Norway, "ridiculously full of telephones," and tells the following little story to illustrate the excessive use of the telephone by Finnish folk:

"Pekka was madly in love with Ima, a wonderfully beautiful maiden. He heard rumors that she was trifling with another. He could not stand the torture, even for a few hours, and so rang up the mansion of the family Heikkila.

"Joy. He heard the voice of Ima in answer, and said: 'Is it you, dear one?' 'I, Pekka, am here.'"

"A soft sigh replied. 'Are you glad to hear Pekka? Do you care for him just a little?'

"Yes," sighed the fair maid. 'Darling, it is not true that he but care for Anna's little sister.'"

"No, no," she cried. 'You like me—you love me?'

"Yes," she softly murmured. 'Will you be my wife?'

"I will, Pekka." 'Overjoyed, Pekka almost hugged the wooden box that brought him such glad tidings.

"When may I come to see you, darling—my little wife?'

"Come, Pekka, come for dinner at three o'clock." A few more sweet nothings, and, quite enraptured, Pekka returned to his office routine. At three o'clock, spick and span, with a golden ring in his pocket, he presented himself at the house of the Heikkilas.

"In the salon stood the mother. He went toward her to receive her motherly congratulations. She rushed forward to meet him, as all good mothers-in-law should, and, throwing her arms about his arms, she cried:

"Take me, Pekka, dearest Pekka; I am yours till death." "Mine?"

"Yes, I have loved you long, darling Pekka, and I am ready whenever you can fix a day for our marriage."

"Falleen. Moral: Beware of telephones."

There are, according to Mrs. Tweedle, some 36,000 more women than men in Finland, the action of Pekka's intended mother-in-law is explainable.—Electrical Engineer.

The English of Americans.

We, as a people, use better English, on the whole, than is used in any English-speaking country. In England, as is well known, many of the inhabitants of one county cannot understand the inhabitants of an adjoining county. A university-bred Londoner cannot translate the unpolished patois of the provinces to his consciousness. The citizens of any one of our states can communicate freely with the citizens of any other state. A Harvard or Yale graduate talks freely and easily with a Colorado miner or a Mississippi farmer. The entire republic is homogeneously together by a common, intelligible English speech. In Great Britain the conditions are just the opposite.

A DOVE COSTUME.

That is the only beautiful Light-colored Dress in the world. One of the large dry goods stores of this city makes a consignment of several pieces of light gray velvets, cloth which were labeled "for dove costumes."

A dove dress that was made out of this piece of goods had a skirt that was quite flaring around the feet. It was trimmed with black braid that was pressed to make a large double band. The waist was a Russian blouse, very

THIS AND THAT.

By the treaty of February 23, 1810, Spain ceded to the United States the peninsula of Florida, lying south of the 31st parallel, west of the River St. Mary and east of the Mississippi river, excepting the island of Orleans.

Madison Johnson, a colored man of Columbus, O., has just had a new pair of shoes made for him, and they are whoppers. The size is No. 22, the length 16 inches long, six inches wide, and each shoe weighs 7 pounds. Johnson's height is eight feet seven inches.

Some buildings on a large sheep pasture near Cloudman, Cal., took fire from a locomotive spark. A later train on the same road was held up by the owner of the sheep pasture, who, ride in hand, compelled the trainmen to assist in extinguishing the fire.

With the aid of his dog, W. C. Woodward tried to drive his 17 cows home. The whole herd, with lowered horns, made a dash for the dog, and the animal fell to its master. Mr. Woodward was knocked down and severely trampled by the enraged cattle.

A shadowy ghost, said to have just come from the realms of shade, made its appearance at a spiritualistic meeting in St. Paul. A French girl yelled a hairpin into the ghost's leg, and the meeting became as lively as a circus. The ghost roared: "Murder!" and threw in a few curse words.

Dr. Tyler Hull, of Dimondale, Mich., contracted blood poisoning, and was so certain of a fatal result that he refused medical assistance. At his request a large mirror was placed at the foot of the bed, so that he might witness his last struggles, and he died with his eyes steadily gazing in the glass.

In 1639 Gorges procured a royal grant of land extending from Piscataqua to the Kennebec. The name of the territory under the new charter was changed to Maine in honor of the queen (Henrietta Maria, wife of Charles I.) whose paternal estate, as princess of France, was the French province of Mayenne.

An ivory and silver statuette was stolen from an art exhibition in Budapest, Hungary, and the next day the pawn ticket for it was received at the art rooms. The statuette had not been missed, and the secretary, on going to the pedestal, was amazed to find on it a card bearing these words: "Stolen for a day or two."

HIGH CHIMNEYS.

A Glasgow Stack Test Towers Up 468 Feet—Weighs 8,000 Tons.

The honor of possessing the highest chimney in the world belongs to Glasgow, where there are two stacks of colossal proportions. One of these—the Townsend shaft, Port Glasgow—has a total height of 468 feet, with a diameter at the base of 32 feet, and at the top of 13 feet 4 inches. The structure weighs about 8,000 tons.

The other stack—that at St. Rollox, Glasgow—has a total height of 445 feet 6 inches, with a diameter at the base of 50 feet and at the top of 13 feet 6 inches. The managing director of Joseph Townsend, Limited, Mr. Oliver C. Townsend, has been good enough to give me the following particulars of their shaft: Founded in May, 1857; coping laid October 6, 1859; bent by storm of September 9, 1859; restored to perpendicular by sawing from September 21 till October 1, 1859. Total height, 468 feet; from surface to top of cope, 454 feet; outside diameter at foundation, 50 feet; at coping, 32 feet; at top of cope, 13 feet 4 inches; height of lighting conductor at top of chimney, 20 feet. There is a chimney at Cologne which is 412 feet high, with a diameter at the square base of 39 feet and at the round top of 11 feet 6 inches. Its weight is about 5,500 tons. Another towering chimney on the continent is that at the Royal smelting works near Freiberg, in Saxony. It is built upon the top of a hill, where it stands isolated, and is 460 feet high. The most costly chimney in the world is in Bradford, at the famous Manchester mill. Its height is a remarkable structure architecturally, and is the most prominent feature in the landscape in that part of Yorkshire. It is 256 feet 6 inches high, and 21 feet square. It contains 800 tons of material, and cost rather more than £10,000. A peculiarity of this shaft is that it is as broad at the top as it is at the bottom, but the interior is wider at the summit than at the base, the dimensions being 13 feet and 10 feet, respectively. In addition to possessing the most expensive chimney, Bradford has the gloomy distinction of having experienced the most terrible disaster on record—that of the Newlands mill—August 10th.

A New Game with an Old Name—A Terror to Beginners.

"Oh, I can play croquet!" "Yes, you can, can you?" "Of course, it's nothing but whacking a ball around on the lawn with a little mallet. I need to play it when I was little."

That is what nearly everyone would say if asked; but playing croquet is not so easy now as it used to be, when the fairly skilled player could start third or fourth and go clear through to the further stake in one inning. Just as in baseball, "one out, side out!" used to be the rule. Now it takes three out to give a fellow a chance to bat again; so croquet has been made harder and harder, until now it's a terror to beginners.

In the first place, it isn't played—at least, in match games of any importance—on grass or lawn, but upon carefully beaten dirt courts, as like as billiard tables. They are level as billiard tables, and the mallets they have raised edges of leveled timber all around them, from which corner or rebounding shots can be made; and a good player is expected not only to be able to make corner shots, but to hit his ball a downward blow with the mallet and not to jump right over another ball or wire that he doesn't want to hit.

But the most vexatious thing about the modern croquet game is the way in which the wickets, or arches, have been narrowed. They used to be ten inches wide at the start, and half the time were spread an inch or so wider before being driven into the ground with a mallet. Now the ordinary wickets are exactly 3 inches wide, and the two arches or wickets set side by side in the middle of the ground are only 33 inches of space between the wires. A regulation croquet ball is 31 inches in diameter, so that there is just a quarter of an inch to spare in going through an ordinary wicket, and in the middle wickets only an eighth of an inch. This renders it hard to make a shot when the ball is not in good position. Besides the balls are no longer turned out of wood with a lathe, but are made of hard pressed rubber. The mallet may be boxwood, but the head is often a steel tube filled with wood in the middle, with one end of soft rubber and one of hard rubber. The mallet heads are long and straight, the handles vary in length, but are commonly shorter than in the old days, running down even to 12 inches.

Croquet was for a time badly distanced in the popular affection by tennis; just as tennis has since suffered by the golf craze; but the older game seems now to be gaining ground again in all parts of the country.—Philadelphia Press.

HIS WIFE WAS NOT LOST.

This Man Wanted to Hear from His Absent Spouse.

The wife of a well-known newspaper man left a Pittsburgh last Tuesday for Atlantic City. She wrote him a letter on Friday, which he received Saturday, but that was the last he heard from her for several days. A joker and he went to the composing room of the paper for which he works and had the following notice set: "LOST—A wife, aged 37 years, about five feet six inches high, slender, eyes large and nose prominent; fair to look upon, and quite attractive; she is original in her ideas, a good talker, and has a temper of her own; when last heard from she was at Atlantic City, but has since been seen in Philadelphia and Swarthmore. She was accompanied by a son, aged 15, who can easily be identified by his inclination to chew the rag. Any information of the lost couple will be thankfully received by a lone and much-abused husband and three motherless children."

Then he got an issue of the paper and carefully pasted the "ad" in the proper column and mailed the paper to his wife, blue penning the "ad." The wife is also somewhat of a joker, and she proceeded to get even. She wired, collect, the following: "Noticed 'ad' for lost wife. You can't lose me, Charley."

About an hour later another collect call came. It followed: "Friends think I am meant by the 'ad' and insist that I let you know that I am not lost. I am far from lost, stayed or stolen. We are having an elegant time, and I am too busy to write more than a day or two. I know how I am getting on."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Odd Names of Newspapers.

Some newspaper readers of Missouri has compiled a list of odd names of newspapers in that state. The list includes the Book of Comfort, Unreeling Hesperus, Hustler, Hustler, Buzz Saw, Silver Hammer, Eye Opener, Cyclone, Blizzard, Whizzer, and Comet, and then comes down to the quiet Eye, Optic, Fly, Eel, Quill, Bee, and the businesslike Cash Book and Fact.

In the Hawaiian islands there are twice as many men as women.

A few weeks ago the editor was taken with a very severe cold that caused him to be in a most miserable condition. It was undoubtedly a bad case of a gripe and, recognizing it as dangerous for some apples, he brought out a speedy cure. From the advertisement of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the many good recommendations included therein, we concluded to make a first trial of the medicine. To say that it was satisfactory is its result, is putting it very mildly. It acted like magic and the result was a speedy and permanent cure. We have no hesitation in recommending this excellent Cough Remedy to anyone afflicted with a cough or cold in any form.—The Banner of Liberty, Libertytown, Maryland. The doctor may be a good old man, but even so, medical examinations and the "local-application" treatment are abhorrent to every modest woman. They are embarrassing—often useless. They should not be submitted to until everything else has been tried. In nine cases out of ten, there is no reason for them. In nine cases out of ten, the doctor in general practice isn't competent to treat female diseases. They make a practice of medicine by themselves. They are distinct from other ailments. They can be properly understood and treated only by one who has had years of actual practice and experience in this particular line. This is true of Dr. R. P. ## THE GIANT CACTUS.

Is the Most Popular of All Forms of Vegetable Life.

People in general are but little impressed by the many forms of life, be they plant or animal, with which they daily come in contact. A tree of unusual size, or a flower of exceptional form or color, attracts our attention. It is the unusual in nature which attracts the eye. The New England bay grows to manhood under the widespread boughs of the American elm, in sight of grass-covered mountains and winding rivers. The natural beauty of his surroundings is a part of himself. So also, the Lapago Indian sees nothing peculiar in the many forms of life characteristic of the region where he makes his home.

He cannot listen to the whispering of the leaves, because the tree of his limited world is part of himself. He knows nothing of tangled woods, but draws his inspiration from the broad, flat, cactus-covered plains and granite-walled and lava-strewn mountains.

The many and varied species of cacti, which constitute the vegetation most familiar to him, are the most peculiar of all forms of vegetable life to those who live beyond the limits of our arid region. Of all these strange plants the silmar, or saguaro, on account of its great size and striking aspect, is the most impressive. We can well imagine the feeling of the early explorers when they first came in sight of these towering plants, so abundant on the foothills contiguous to the desert, and from where they extended southward far into Mexico. The finest and largest specimens that I have ever observed are growing only a few miles from Tucson, on the foothills of the Santa Catalina mountains, where hundreds may be seen growing in single acres, many extending their huge green columns to the height of 50 feet. The many ribs which parallel the columns are surmounted by bunches of heavy spines. With great spines fall away from the central portion of the plant leaving the broad, oblong ribs devoid of their natural protector. This fact led to the first observers to report the plant spineless. J. W. Toumey, in Appleton's Popular Science Monthly.

DID NOT FIND THE STORE.

A Child's Pathetic Plight—She Would Not Get Lost.

It was a warm Saturday morning. Several women with market baskets were on a Franklin avenue car. A little girl, neatly but poorly dressed, sat in the corner of one of the seats, clutching a car ticket and a picture card tightly in one hand. She had not been here more than eight years, but she looked about her with an important air.

After the car passed Twentieth street she looked out of the window with some uneasiness. At last she turned to a lady sitting back of her, and said:

"Missus, will you tell me when we get to the grocery store?"

"What grocery store?" asked the woman, leaning forward kindly.

"The little grocery store on the corner," replied the child. "I told mother I knew where it was, but I can't find it," and her lip trembled.

"Perhaps you have the number on that card in your hand," suggested the woman. The little girl shook her head, and looked out of the window again. The tears rolled down her cheeks, but she did not utter a sound.

"Do you know where you live?" asked her new friend, with some anxiety.

"O yes," responded a little trembling voice, "I live on Lucky street."

"You'd better go back home before you lose your ticket," said the good woman. The little thing stood on tip toe to ring the bell. With the tears running out of her eyes she rushed to the door, and walked across the street with determination expressed in every line of her small figure. She is a true child of the century.—St. Louis Republic.

Profit of Rabbits.

In England the rabbit can be bred with profit by those who understand it. For example, in Norfolk there is a large warren, comprising 800 or 900 acres, where on summer evenings the visitor may see 500 or 600 rabbits playing about their burrows, and indulging in their merry gambols.

From this warren the lesser contrivance to clear about $600 annually. It drives the rabbits out of their burrows with paraffin oil, and for the oil and labor he has to pay $200 yearly.

Polygynous Religious Service.

A queer polygynous religious service was held at the Seaman's Bethel, at Douglas, Me. The Gospel was read in Gaelic, a hymn sung in Manx, prayer offered in Welsh and a sermon delivered in English. On the previous Sunday the Lord's Prayer was spoken in Cornish, a language the last speaker of which died in the early years of the century.

A GRAPE DINNER.

It is the Very Newest Thing in the Social Year Here.

A dinner party is never an easy thing to give, but if you help it out by a "grape dinner" at this time of the year it is a social and certainly beautiful, and it possesses the wonderful advantage of being no more expensive and a great deal less trouble than to give the ordinary formal affair.

The woman who originated the grape dinner had a man to serve it, but this is not necessary.

In the center of the table was a big silver and glass dish into which were filled grapes of a deep purple and bright green, with an abundance of grape leaves upon them. As grape leaves are not always easy to obtain, imitation ones can be substituted for the sake of the appearance of the dish; but at this time of the year a trip to the country will give anyone an abundance of leaves for the asking.

From the dish there extended grape vines which led to the four corners of the table, each terminating with a large bunch of green grapes. The table was set for eight, and under each plate there was a dolly in the form of a grape leaf, studded with green around the edges and veined. The cloth was now white, as were also the dishes.

The guests were served with grape jelly made in a bunch of grapes mold. This was served with the grapes, and a roast cake sorbet (home-made), after which there were ices and cream in bunch-of-grapes form tinted with green.

Over the table bunches of grapes were hung from the chandeliers.

the back of the neck and deep in front, the front being raised up to the neck. It is cut in scallops all the way around and these are edged with different trimmings, the most beautiful of which are tiny bird's feathers, but the most exquisite a ruffling of very narrow ribbon is quite as effective. The collar has a little yoke upon it which is treated in the same way.

Around this collar a black satin stoke with an immense bow at the back is firmly clasped and in the middle of the bow there can be a big rhinestone buckle if so desired.

HELEN GRAY-PAGE.

Consumption Among Negroes. A reason given for the discrimination against negroes made by many life insurance companies is the high death rate from consumption among the blacks. The greatest disparity between the white and colored death rate from this disease is in Charleston, where the excess per cent of the colored is said to be as high as 230.5. Upon investigation, it has been concluded that unfavorable conditions of the environment have little to do with this mortality, but that it must be attributed to ignorance and disregard of the laws of health and medicine.

War as It Would Be.

"War, as we know it in the real world, was terrible enough," says the Boston Journal, "but should the armed time of Europe be broken and the armies of the powers be the hands of thousands sent into the battle field with their wonderful new devices of death and mutilation, the horrors of the war would be multiplied tenfold, with no merciful canopy of smoke to hide them."

"The sword of state," says Swinton, the historian, "is the standing army of a nation."

IMPORTANT NEWS GARBLED.

Freedom of the Turkish Press Restricted by Official Censors.

The Local Agency of Berlin says that Turkish newspapers are now allowed any liberty to discuss either internal or foreign politics. Now and then they have "inspired" articles. Occasionally certain articles are ordered to be printed in the Turkish papers, of which all European papers in the capital are forbidden to publish translations, lest foreigners should read what is intended for the Turks. There is one kind of news for the Turks and another kind for Europeans. The delicacy and discretion of the Turkish censors are almost inconceivable. When Carnot was assassinated, the news was spread over Constantinople from month to month with great rapidity, and although everybody was acquainted with the facts and conversed about them, the Constantinople papers were forbidden to give any details of the tragedy. "The president of the French republic died suddenly," was the official notification in the papers.

Later something more had to be said about his death, and it appeared in this form: "After the occurrence cannot lay unexpressed in the carriage." The remainder of the dispatch, "and the blood was flowing from the wound," had been carefully stricken out by the censors. The words of Prefect Ruy to the assassins in Lyons, "Cry not, Carnot has fallen a victim to an assassin," had to be rendered in the Turkish papers as "Cry not, Carnot is lying at death's door." And, at the time this report was published, the European papers gave the long account of the murder lay about in all the hotels and cafes of Constantinople.

When Canovas was assassinated the news appeared thus in the Turkish papers: "The entire population of Paris is tremendously excited over the death of the Minister-President Canovas." When Stambuloff was murdered the Turkish papers were not allowed to give an account of his death, and first had to print that Stambuloff was lying hopelessly ill. Later on the news of his death followed as a matter of course. The papers were also forbidden to publish Gladstone's picture because he had abused the Sultan.

After the Armenian troubles the censors directed their attention to Armenian books, and even the Armenian Bible did not escape. In the Armenian tongue Judea is called "Heryastan," and Armenia is "Hayastan." The word Armenia does not exist for long even in the Bible, has been erased from all their maps. But as "Heryastan" sounds something like "Hayastan," a Turkish censor ordered the expurgation of the former word. And so Hides in the word Judea does not appear any more in the Turkish papers.

Sometimes the Constantinople papers, in Turkish as well as in foreign languages, express their feelings by means of typographical errors. When Hassan Disha, minister of marine, received a valuable sword of honor from the Sultan, one of these papers wrote "Sabre de grand valeur," (sword of great value) instead of "Sabre de grande valeur," (sword of great value). The censors now hold the editors responsible for typographical errors.

In times of political excitement the censor's office encourages newspaper correspondents to take up the attention of their readers with such information as this: "When the first Armenian massacre took place in Smyrna the correspondent of the Constantinople paper there wrote thus: 'There is nothing very special to mention. Several tobacco smugglers were arrested by the customs-house officers. I will, however, mention a curious incident. A cow went mad and strided up the entire community.'"

Men Who Make Money.

Some men who are earning large salaries these days are Edward C. Bald, not long ago a butcher-boy in Buffalo, N. Y., who makes $10,000 a year in salaries and prizes as a professional billiardist; James J. Corbett, $300 a year for playing baseball, and in the theatrical scene he makes $25,000 a year. Tod Sloan, the jockey, makes $25,000 a year. This is more than three times the salary of Secretary of State Sherman or President Eliot, of Harvard, give it. The best paid minister in America, Rev. John Hall, gets only $15,000 a year.

Sending a Child by Post.

A novel parcel for delivery by express post was handed in at the Birmingham post office. A working man, who had just arrived at Birmingham, wished to reach his place of business, but not in time to take the child home. He, therefore, walked into the nearest post office and tendered the youngster as an express parcel. The authorities, under no idea of regulating the delivery of live animals, accepted the child, and duly delivered it at the charge of ninepence.

IDENTITY OF LOHENGRIN.

One Learned Man, at Least, Thinks He Has Discovered It.

German historians, and of late years the votaries of Wagner more especially, have made frequent guesses as to the identity of Lohengrin, the knight who mysteriously appears with an accompaniment of swans and music and as mysteriously disappears when it seems to Elsinore Brabant—not untruthfully, it would seem to the unprejudiced, though somewhat tardily—that she would like to know something definite concerning the man to whom she has given her hand. As Herr I. F. D. Rote, in a recent article in a German philosophical journal, points out, however, long before medieval poetry celebrated him as the founder of the house of Brabant, he had been assigned by the French tourneys to a connection with the family of Godofred de Bouillon. In order to give this favorite hero of their the glory of a supernatural origin, the French singers picked out from their legendary lore the Swan-knight Elzeas, as he is called in the French epics, and made him the grandfather of Godofred de Bouillon.

The enterprising writer of the article has succeeded, he thinks, in identifying this semimythical personage as a real one. This he has done by actual genealogy. Godofred's younger brother, Baudouin, later on king of Jerusalem, was married to Godelinde, the only daughter of a Seigneur de Tourni in Normandy. The grandfather of this Godelinde was Roger I. de Tourni, who died in 1040, and it is he to whom the writer unconsciously assigns the role of the swan-knight. He bases his assumption upon the following argument, which fully agrees with tradition: Roger de Tourni had as coat-of-arms a swan; he liberated the oppressed counties of Flanders from the Normans, received as reward the hand of his daughter, and later on retired, for unknown reasons, to his own country. The main facts of this story remained in the popular memory, although the locality and causes were forgotten, and tradition applied to them new names and places, adding, also, in time, the mysterious attributes of the knight, as well as his command to his bride never to inquire his origin, at least, Herr Rote tells us, and until we are able to get a better explanation of the rise of this saga, we may as well accept his.—St. Louis Republic.

THE HORSELESS CARRIAGE.

The Chicago G.I. Sees in It Great Possibilities.

"George,"

The beautiful maiden was thoughtful, and the gallant young man knew by experience that she was struggling with some great problem.

"Yes, Mabel," he said.

"When a horseless carriage is once started," he suggested, "it will run a long time without calling for any further attention, will it not?"

"Yes, I suppose it might," he admitted. "I confess I have never given the matter any thought, but I suppose it would be a very simple matter to take the steering apparatus under some circumstances."

The beautiful maiden sighed.

"It seems to me, George," she said, softly, "that—Of course I don't know anything about it, but it really does seem to me."

"Yes, darling," he said, tending to gently encourage her.

She looked thoughtfully into his eyes with a regular sigh-like expression.
